OCCUPATIONAL TRAINING

Lunch & Learns

Delve into the world of Facilities Management with our dynamic Lunch and Learn sessions! Delight in your own cuisine while exploring the many facets of FM and UVA. These interactive sessions are designed to broaden your knowledge of FM processes and allow you to ask the expert. Our FM/UVA-specific sessions will also provide an opportunity to drive professional development and build your business acumen and knowledge of “how FM works”.

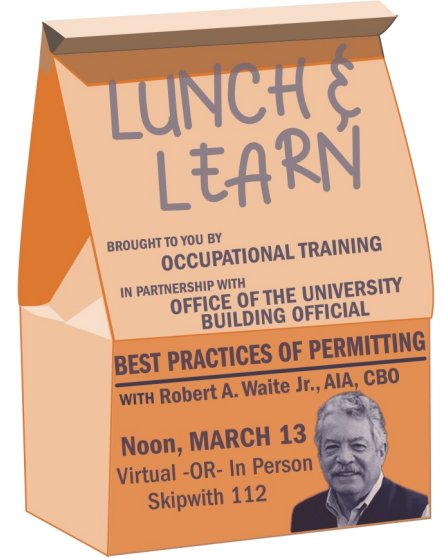

Each Lunch and Learn session will be presented by a UVA subject matter expert (SME) with a unique link to you and our operations.

Each session will begin at 12:00 PM.

Plan for 45 minutes, but it's ok if you have to leave after 30.

The first Lunch & Learn is scheduled for Noon on March 13: Permitting at UVA.

Presented by Bob A. Waite Jr., AIA, CBO with the University Office of Building Official —
Get your questions answered about permitting!

How to Register & Attend:

Users can attend in-person at Skipwith 112 or virtually via Teams.

Register for the March session on Permits:
<https://at.virginia.edu/UVAFMLLPmits2024>

Attendance is not tracked.

In April, FM Occupational Training will be hosting multiple sessions on Finance at UVA FM, including:

- The FM Financial Model
- Life of a Purchase Order (PO)
- Life of a Travel & Expense (T&E) Transaction

Future Lunch and Learn sessions will be posted on the FM screens and the FM Occupational Training site.

“The next Guatemala pre-trip meeting is underway, and volunteers are needed for our projects in Guatemala! We are currently working on three schools, and to get the projects done right. We're in need of plumbers, masons, and trip leaders. Spanish-speaking skills are a bonus! These opportunities are coming up soon, so act quickly and reach out to volunteer@buildinggoodness.org if you want to join us!”

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY

Tools for Your Toolbox: Benefits of Kindness

Practicing kindness towards others has many advantages!

- Up to 95% of people experience an increase in happiness and self-confidence after completing a single act of kindness
- 81% felt the “helper’s high” for days afterward.

A 2006 study found that people who volunteer to help others not only have better cardiovascular health but also enjoy a lower mortality rate. Further research shows that even in high-stress situations, people who spend time caring for others, whether it's helping out friends, neighbors, or the community, show no stress-related increase in mortality. By being kind, you are literally improving your heart and building resilience.

Did You Know? Electrical Safety in the Workplace

Electricity can pose a risk to those who handle it without proper knowledge or tools within reach. Electrical safety is varied, with no one solution that solves and abates all risks and injuries. However, there are many steps and actions that can help reduce risk, increase knowledge, and strengthen a safe culture. Use the following list as a baseline to get started in addressing electrical safety in your workplace:

1. Know the regulations and requirements- OSHA and NFPA!
2. Identify all present hazards.
3. Learn the “best practice” methods.
4. Go through the auditing process regularly.
5. Have the right PPE on hand.
6. Follow the UVA FM Electrical Safety Program.
7. Use visual communication.
8. Train employees on both arc flash protocol and standard electrical tasks.
